

Seminar: Ethics and the Research Process

The Social Research Association (Ireland) are delighted to be hosting a Seminar with Dr. Helen Kara at 6pm on 24th Oct 2017 in the Teachers Club, 36 Parnell Square W, Rotunda, Dublin 1

Seminar: Ethics and the Research Process

Time & date: 6pm-7.30pm , Tuesday 24th Oct 2017.

Location: Teachers Club, 36 Parnell Square W, Rotunda, Dublin 1

Cost: Free (you just need to register with Ireland.Events@the-sra.org.uk)

Is research ethics a dry, bureaucratic topic, dealt with through forms and committees? Or is it a dynamic principle that underpins the whole of the research process?

Helen Kara, author of Research Ethics in the Real World (Policy Press, forthcoming) will argue that ethics is not something you can tick off your to-do list. Ethics requires considerable thought and attention, from the moment a research question is posed, potentially until long after a project is complete. Come and discover some new ways to work ethically in practice. Lively discussions guaranteed!

This is Helen's first visit to Ireland and as such provides a unique opportunity for the research community in Ireland to tap into her skills and experience. Helen's most recent book on Creative Research Methods in the Social Sciences: A Practical Guide was published by Policy Press, in 2015. She is currently working on her next book on research ethics.

Helen writes and teaches on research methods and is a Visiting Fellow at the UK's National Centre for Research Methods. She has been an independent researcher since 1999. See <https://helenkara.com/> for more details.

Registration:

To register to attend please email the following to Ireland.Events@the-sra.org.uk to book your place